

Docket No.
Customer No. 30734

PATENT

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides an apparatus for a component independent documentation system, which includes a data repository component, a media manager component, and an application server component, wherein the application server component is connected to the data repository, media manager and workflow components.